MORAL AND CHARACTER DEVELOPMENT

Teaching children from early and middle childhood to adolescence how to respond and make informed decisions under pressure is the hallmark of Professor Gulu's moral and character development learning series.

Each song and book is skillfully crafted to promote insight and understanding, stimulate creative thinking, and to equip youth with effective problem-solving skills. And most importantly, the book and music learning series has been made affordable for nearly every family.

Therefore, thank you in advance for supporting Professor Gulu's initiative to ensure that every youth has the opportunity to learn, grow, and to reach his or her full potential.

A Message From Professor Gulu

Across the country, children set approximately 1 million fires each year. Some may view juvenile fire setting behavior as simple child's play, but for others it often results in costly and deadly consequences.

In fact, fire itself is neither good nor bad. When used properly, fire can cook food and warm up homes. However, when used carelessly or irresponsibly, fire can destroy homes, property, and even kill.

With over 4,000 people dying each year in home fires, it's only reasonable to ask what are the simple steps to survive a home fire? And why is it important to make and practice the family's escape plan?

To every child, please read this book with your parents, educators or caregivers to become acquainted with the steps to help you and your family survive a home fire. And finally, parents, teachers, and counselors, please talk with your local fire department representative for additional fire safety tips.

Remember, PLAY IT SAFE!

A DEDICATION TO HEROES

To the brave men and women in uniform who courageously risk both life and limb to “protect and serve,” to those who died, those who live, and those who make daily sacrifices. From coast to coast, they are the heart and soul of this great nation, and they are all races, both sexes, and all religions. They help shape the course of world history, stand steadfast in the face of danger, and fight unceasingly to preserve the rights, values, and well-being of every citizen.

Today, we honor and remember those courageous warriors who boldly answer the call to duty. They are the Heroes who sacrifice their lives for strangers and pay the cost to ensure justice, peace, and freedom for all.

Let’s honor and salute our heroes today, tomorrow, and forever.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I would like to express the deepest appreciation to my beautiful wife, Ann Branch-Floyd, whose guidance, encouragement, and faith challenged me to reach new heights. Without her inspiration and persistent help, this book and the entire Professor Gulu learning series would not have been possible.

I would also like to thank WAAJID Branding & Marketing for laying out the book cover design.

And finally, very special thanks to my aunt, Barbara Wright Coleman of Albany, Georgia, for editing and proofreading.

Burning Wings

The school bus was unusually late this afternoon. Four children, Ted, Katy, Chu, and Jeff, waited patiently at the bus stop for their bus to arrive.

“Would you like to see something funny?” Jeff asked the other kids.

“Of course!” they all replied.

Suddenly, Jeff created a small paper airplane and pulled a box of matches out of his pocket. He set fire to the wings and threw the burning airplane into the sky.

“Bang! Bang! Bang!” Jeff shouted. “I shot it! It’s going to crash,” he added.

“I can’t believe it!” Ted uttered, watching the burning paper airplane fall slowly to the ground in a fiery blaze.

“Jeff’s playing with fire,” Katy cried with a look of amazement.

“Boy, you’re asking for trouble,” Chu warned.

“Hey! Get with it, guys. A little fun has never hurt anybody,” Jeff replied smugly.

“That’s not fun, that’s dangerous!” Katy exclaimed, with a serious look on her face.

“My mom constantly reminds us that fire can be useful, but it can also be very dangerous. She always blows the candles out and makes sure the stove is off before we leave our home,” Ted told Jeff.

“Yeah, my dad makes sure to replace the battery in our smoke detectors twice a year. We even have fire drills and practice our fire escape plan every six months,” Katy added.

“Wow! You guys make a really big deal out of fire safety. Hey, don’t worry,” Jeff responded. “I have everything under control.”

Jeff was going to spend the weekend with Chu’s family. Jeff and Chu had become very close friends. Ted and Katy lived next door to Chu. Jeff and Chu had planned to spend the weekend fishing and camping with Chu's father. Seconds later, the school bus arrived.

“Stay out of trouble, guys,” Ted told Jeff and Chu, as they all prepared to get on the bus.

“You can count on it,” Jeff replied.

Without wasting any time, they all boarded the bus and headed home.
